Information Technology eXperts, Inc. Announces Purchase of Local Network Security Firm.

Fort Collins, CO, October 8, 2003 – Information Technology eXperts (ITX) today announced that they have purchased Tactical Security Solutions as part of deal that will increase ITX's information technology service offering and capacity to serve the market.

Tactical Security Solutions, also of Fort Collins, provides value added Internet security solutions. The company employs four people, including the two founders, all of whom will remain on the ITX staff. "We saw this as a great way to combine our expertise in order to provide full service IT support to the market, which would have been tough to do as a smaller company," said Jason Wallin, Co-founder of Tactical Security Solutions.

ITX, which has been recognized for its rapid growth in recent years, will immediately offer the new service, as well as their traditional IT support. "We have provided security solutions in the past, but this move enables us to showcase a much deeper level of expertise to a broader customer base" said Mai Tran, Co-owner of ITX. "We are excited to have Jason and his team join our company and bring increased value to our customers."

ITX currently employs 35 people and serves a mixture of commercial clients located from Denver to Southern Wyoming, as well as Federal government agencies across the country. The ITX team focuses on a comprehensive service offering including databases, networks, help desk, and hosting solutions. The newly formed security team will continue to provide network security solutions to a commercial client base across the United States.

About ITX
